THE QUARTERLY SURVEY OF NEW YORK PRACTICE

TABLE OF CONTENTS

*Introduction

Few causes have won the attention of the Survey as decisively as the plight of the practitioner who must apply for a stay of arbitration within ten short days. Consequently, it is with utmost extollment that two cases, which have somewhat alleviated this burden, are reported herein. In Knickerbocker Insurance Co. v. Gilbert, the Court of Appeals ratified mailing — rather than actual receipt — of an application to stay arbitration as sufficient to satisfy the statute of limitations. And, in Empire Mutual Insurance Co. v. Levy the First Department vitiated a notice of intention to arbitrate which was intentionally served in a deceptive manner. If the preclusionary caveat contained in CPLR 7503(c) is to be construed as a statute of limitations, these cases at least assure the practitioner a full ten days in which to act.

Also relevant to the arbitral process are Blends, Inc. v. Schottland Mills, Inc. and Mount St. Mary's Hospital v. Catherwood. In the former, the First Department restored the issue of timeliness of a demand for arbitration to the status of a threshold question to be decided by the court. In the latter, the Court of Appeals defined the degree to which the courts are permitted to scrutinize an award rendered at compulsory arbitration. Finally, the reader's attention is directed to the cases discussed under CPLR 302. It appears that the courts are discerning jurisdictional prerequisites with remarkable facility.

Also valuable are the two joint reports of the Senate Finance and Assembly Ways and Means Committees:

The Survey sets forth in each installment those cases which are deemed to make the most significant contribution to New York's procedural law. Due to limitations of space, however, many other less important, but, nevertheless, significant cases cannot be included. While few cases are exhaustively discussed, it is hoped that the Survey accomplishes its basic purpose, viz., to key the practitioner to significant developments in the procedural law of New York.

The Table of Contents is designed to direct the reader to those specific areas of procedural law which may be of importance to him. The various sections of the CPLR which are specifically treated in the cases are listed under their respective titles.

ARTICLE 3 — JURISDICTION AND SERVICE, APPEARANCE AND CHOICE OF COURT

CPLR 302(a)(1): Perfection of security agreement and liquidation of assets in New York deemed a transaction of business.

CPLR 302(a)(1) authorizes the assumption of in personam jurisdiction over any nondomiciliary who, in person or through an agent, "transacts any business" in New York. Inasmuch as the legislature elected not to establish precise guidelines when enacting this subsection,[1] the determination of whether a defendant has transacted business in the state must be made according to the circumstances of each case. Alan Howard, Inc. v. American Acceptance Corp.[2] is yet another illustration of the novel factual situations which have arisen under this proviso.[3]

Defendant, a Delaware corporation which neither maintained an office nor conducted business in New York, had advanced money to Hale's Bedding Stores of New York, Inc. (Hale's) and received in return a security interest in the latter's inventory, accounts receivable and contract rights within the state. This agreement was perfected by filing a financing statement with the Secretary of State and the appropriate county clerk. Subsequently, Hale's assets were liquidated and
